

BATTLE FLAMES AS CONFLICT RIOT

NAVAL COMMITTEE UPHOLDS SIMS IN DANIELS RUMPUS

MAJORITY REPORT DECLARES ADMIRAL RIGHT IN CHARGES
MINORITY OBJECTS

Delays and Lax Methods, Failure to Prepare, Cited Against Secretary

(By Associated Press.)
Washington. — A diametric conflict of views between republicans and democrats as to the justification for Rear Admiral William S. Sims' charges of misconduct and delay on the part of the American naval administration during the early months of the war is shown in majority and minority reports of the senate naval committee's investigation of the controversy between Admiral Sims and former Secretary Daniels.

Assailed by the majority for having pursued what it declared was a "self-defensive, non-aggressive and non-helpful policy" early in the war, the naval administration under Secretary Daniels was upheld in the minority report as amply vindicated by the "uniform success of our operations," and as deserving the hearty commendation of this committee and of the American people.

The publication of the reports constitutes the closing chapter in the Sims-Daniels controversy of May, 1920, precipitated by Rear Admiral Sims' letter, sharply criticizing the Daniels war administration. The letter, which charges numerous delays and lax methods in the navy department, was brought to light during a committee inquiry into Admiral Sims' controversy with the former secretary over naval awards of distinguished service decorations.

Charging many sins of omissions and commission, both in the matter of preparation and in naval prosecution of the war, the majority report severely scored Mr. Daniels, former President Wilson and Rear Admiral William S. Benson, former chief of operations, as the responsible administrative officers.

These officials were warmly defended in the minority report. Admiral Sims, commander-in-chief of naval operations overseas during the war, was commended by the majority and assailed by the minority.

Opposed to the majority charges that many serious delays in naval operations resulted from the "non-aggressive policy" pursued prior to the outbreak of the war, the minority said that "at no time did the navy fail to perform promptly and efficiently every task that was imposed upon it."

Republican majority was signed by Senators Hale, Maine; Ball, Delaware, and Keyes, New Hampshire while that of the minority bore the signatures of Senators Pittman, Nevada, and Tamm, Missouri.

The majority report presented two recommendations, one for appointment of a commission of naval officers to study the application of lessons learned from the war to the navy, and the other for a commission, including civilians, to study and recommend reforms in naval organization. The minority made no recommendations.

In supporting, against the opinion of the minority, many of the majority deal conspicuously with the administrative charges that navy department delays in prosecuting the war were estimated to have cost unnecessarily 500,000 lives and $15,000,000,000. While admitting it is impossible to estimate the cost of the war, the majority said that the delays not occurred, the American Expeditionary Forces might have brought about an allied victory earlier than they actually did.

CAN'T CANCEL WAR DEBT—WILSON TO BRITISH PREMIER

LETTER OF REFUSAL IS PLACED IN CONGRESS RECORD

BILL IS URGED

Administration Seeks Blanket Power for Treasury in Matter

(By Associated Press.)
Washington. — A letter from former President Wilson to Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, declaring the United States could not consider proposals to cancel Great Britain's indebtedness to this nation any longer in the congressional record Monday by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, republican leader.

Mr. Wilson's letter dated in Oct., 1919, was submitted to the senate foreign relations committee by former Secretary Houston. It said that "suggestions looking to the cancellation or exchange" was made to former president in Paris. The communication apparently "was the reply to the British premier's letter, made public last week in the senate finance committee hearing."

Secretary Mellon told the senate finance committee Monday he thought it impracticable to begin negotiations for refunding allied loans without congressional authority to conclude them. Reference to congress for approval of terms of settlement arranged would materially embarrass the government and delay negotiations, he said, continuing his argument for the administration's bill to give the treasury blanket power.

"Any suggestion of the substitution of Turkish bonds for French bonds," asked Senator La Follette. "We have had no notice of any such plans." Assistant Secretary Tamm, who accompanied Mr. Mellon, replied.

Tentative Agreements
"Has there been any correspondence or negotiations with reference to our government's canceling any of the German bonds after they have turned over to the allied governments as reparations bonds?" Senator Reed, Missouri democrat, asked.

Mr. Mellon said that the communication from any German government, that except tentative agreements made by England, France and the United States that possibly the German bonds would be canceled in payment for the amounts Belgium had borrowed up to armistice day," replied Mr. Tamm.

"That agreement was submitted to congress," he said.

WOMAN TARRED THEN NABBED ON BIGAMY CHARGE

(By Associated Press.)

Shreveport, La. — Mrs. E. S. Boulah Johnson was taken from the porch of a hotel at Tondha, Tex., stripped, tarred and feathered, according to advice reaching here on Sunday.

The attack on Mrs. Johnson, which occurred Saturday night, was said to have been made by masked men wearing white uniforms. They are said to have driven up to the hotel in three automobiles and to have taken the young woman into one of the cars. The automobiles proceeded into the country, where Mrs. Johnson's clothing was removed and she was given a coat of tar and feathers. She was then placed in the automobile and returned to the town.

Mrs. Johnson, who has been working at the hotel as a maid and cook, late advice was that Mrs. Johnson has been arrested on a charge of bigamy and taken to jail at Center, Tex.

Lloyd George, De Valera and Other Leaders Confer in London

(By Associated Press.)
London. — The Irish situation, it was declared in responsible quarters Monday night has developed into virtually a deadlock between Premier Lloyd George and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, and the latter has been given an opportunity to go to Belfast to see if anything can be done in the circumstances.

The Sinn Fein leaders have submitted their minimum demands, which have been relayed to the Ulster premier for consideration. It is stated, it is in connection with this that Sir James is returning to Belfast Monday night.

London. — General Jan C. Smuts, the South African premier, who had a prominent part in the early informal negotiations which brought about the peace in Ireland and the peace conference now in progress, reappeared Monday as a factor in the Irish negotiations.

Mr. Lloyd George, the prime minister, had been at his official residence in Downing street only a short time Monday forenoon when Viscount Fitzalan, lord lieutenant of Ireland, called at Downing street and had a long talk with the premier, during which they were joined by General Smuts, the conference continuing more than an hour.

General Smuts and Lord Agard previously had been in the house, but the conversations, which have been going on at Downing street since the truce went into effect, his last known active participation in the peace negotiations.

At the conclusion of the conference participated in by Mr. Lloyd George, Viscount Fitzalan and General Smuts, the prime minister called the cabinet members to meet him in the house of commons Monday afternoon, after which Mr. De Valera was asked to call at Downing street at 4:15 p. m. to discuss the Irish situation.

The population of the prison was said to be between 1,200 and 1,500. Many prisoners were removed from the south wing where the fire started. Soon afterward the great crowd, which by this time had surrounded three sides of the prison, believed they heard of a series of shots and a panic stricken prisoners for a time subsided.

Matters of importance especially to the police force are to be taken up at Monday night's meeting. Charles Newman, Broadhead, scheduled to succeed Chief Thomas Morrissey on Tuesday, is expected to be present. It is possible all members of the police force will be called in to receive instructions.

WAR IS LAUNCHED ON TOBACCO WORM

Poison Sprays Successful in Stopping Ravages in Rock County

Spraying treatment has been successfully applied to many Rock county crops since Saturday, the chemical being recommended by County Agent R. T. Gussico and the agents of the Wisconsin agricultural school, killing the ravaging pests, which threaten to wipe out the crop. The work on which arsenate of lead and lime were dusted Saturday and Sunday. Plants sprayed with the arsenate of lead and lime on Sunday morning were clean, early in the afternoon, the spray having been effective in killing them within a few hours. Thousands of the worms were found on the ground a few hours after the spraying.

New in Rock County. Spraying tobacco is not new in the United States, although little of it was ever done in the Rock county. Three applications are usually applied.

Never have the farmers been troubled so much with worms as this year. The mild weather and the fact that the tobacco worms are now in the ground, early in the morning, has been favorable for the development of the tobacco worm, grasshoppers and other insects which ravage crops and grains.

How Worms Develop. A large gray, flying insect, deposits greenish eggs under the tobacco plant leaves. The eggs hatch within a short time into tobacco worms which feed on the tobacco leaves. When they are full grown, the worms crawl into the ground for a depth of three or four inches and stay there for several weeks. They then develop into the moth and lay more eggs for the second brood of worms. The second brood when fully developed enters the ground and stays over winter to endanger the crop the next season.

Unless active steps are taken to control the tobacco worm this year and there is a mild winter, the worms will again be destructive to the crop. The spray of two pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water with an ordinary sprayer is an effective way. The arsenate of lead can be dusted on the plants.

BARBERS SEE NO CHANCE FOR CUT

25-50 Cent Scale to Continue Here Despite Rockford Reductions

Little possibility for a reduction soon in the price of haircuts and shaves here is held out by Janesville barbers, interviewed following a report of a reduction at Rockford shops to 25 cents for a haircut and 20 cents for a shave. The reductions were made from the prices which exist in Janesville, 50 and 25, respectively.

The Janesville barbers say the price of barber materials are remaining high. The present prices have been in effect two years. Before the scale was 20 cents for shaves and 40 for haircuts.

Shortage of Barbers. "There is a shortage of 1,500 barbers in the state and with only about 100 taking the state examination, there is little possibility that this situation will soon be rectified," declared William Hough, proprietor of a shop on East Milwaukee street. "In the northern part of the state one pays as much as 75 cents for a haircut."

Some Janesville people motor to Milton, where the shops there have reduced their prices the same as Rockford, one man who has been doing this said it was not the money but the injustice of it, with the readjustment in prices of other commodities.

It is declared by Janesville barbers that the reduction at Rockford will not affect other cities such as Beloit, Rockford, Madison and Janesville, as the reduction in the Illinois city was the result of difference among barbers there.

Many Razors Sold. Hardware dealers here say that the sale of safety razors has tripled within the last two years. They lay it to increased barber prices and the short hours. The hardware men claim farmers who formerly patronized the shops have gone "into business for themselves" as have many city men.

Hair clippers are selling well, with the heads of large families clipping the hair of their own children rather than pay 50 cents a head to have the barbers do the work.

DROUGHT INJURED SMALL GRAIN, HAY

Weekly Crop Report Shows Further Decline; Corn, Spuds Need Rain

(By Associated Press.)

Madison. — Small grains and hay are injured beyond recovery as a result of continued drought, Joseph A. Becker of the Wisconsin crop report service says in his weekly announcement. Except in a few northern counties, all crops suffer a further decline during the week.

Corn and potatoes are coming to the point where they will be greatly injured unless rain arrives to relieve the present dry spell, and the harvest of winter grain is said to be general with yielding an average crop and winter wheat below average.

Spring grains are being harvested, the report says. The yield is light, and over a considerable acreage is too short to bind.

Corn is reported as beginning to cure from lack of moisture, while potatoes are declared to be drying up. The harvest of the main crop of hay, has been completed with a very short crop.

The tobacco crop is said to be standing still from drought and the stand is uneven. Cabbage also is suffering from lack of rain and from worms. Onions will not be a good crop because of drought, smut, maggot and thrips.

OLD ARC LIGHTS WERE BEST REMEDY FOR TOB. WORMS

"Tobacco worms," said Albert Schell of Milton, avenue, who has been a successful tobacco grower for many years, "have been worse out in this section of the county since they took the old arc lights away. I remember when we used to have the arc at the city limits on Milton avenue the light man each day would empty from a pint to a quart of the big moths from which the tobacco worms came.

"Then only once in a while could we find a worm in the vicinity of those lights. Other places had a few but I believe the old fashioned arc lights were the salvation of the crop several seasons. The moths would surely make for the light and die in the intense heat of the current."

Less "Skipping" With New School Officer on Duty

An investigation into the causes of absence in the Janesville public schools made by Miss Rosemary Threlkeld, who has completed her first year's work as attendance officer, a newly created office, shows that 22 days of school were lost because boys and girls overslept.

That there were only 53 days lost from truancy is indicative of the work done by Miss Threlkeld. In compiling a record of the reasons for absence, Miss Threlkeld gives the following with the number of days lost from each cause: unclassified illness, 2842; contagion, 1998; miscellaneous, 436; parental neglect, 663; help with household, 388; care for babies, 331; cut of city, 266; sore throat, 192; "colds," 174; tonsillitis, 125; truancy, 63; defective teeth, 61; defective eyes, 55; earache, 18; moving, 46; pediculosis, 17; social, 33; and oversleeping, 22.

Children whose parents were unable to provide them with suitable clothing to attend school lost 224 days of schooling during 1920-1921. The weather was the cause of 162 days being lost.

Miss Threlkeld investigated 1048 cases of irregular attendance during the year and 45 cases of non-attendance. She made 430 visits to homes of children to consult their parents and 129 visits to public schools and 41 to parochial. Seven cases were referred to the juvenile court; 11 to the city nurse; and 18 to charity bureaus. Seven children were excused from school to attend a family and eight on doctors' certificates. Miss Threlkeld picked up five children on the streets and placed them back in school and five from the theater.

The annual school census is being completed by Miss Threlkeld and will be completed in a short time. The census report will be a fair indication of whether or not there has been a large exodus from Janesville within the past year.

The same in all weathers

Stormy days may keep some girls at home, but not one with a fresh, smooth skin which rain and wind only make the prettier.

Such a natural complexion is beautiful at all times, by flattering evening light or noonday glare. It is the greatest charm a woman can possess and the one charm every woman can achieve.

How to beautify your skin

Women who think that bleaches, lotions and mysterious applications will give them a beautiful complexion are sadly in the wrong. These are more apt to increase bad conditions.

They clog the tiny pores and keep the minute cells from doing their important work. And it is the resulting sluggishness, their dangerous inactivity, which makes skins dull and sallow and produce blackheads and ugly blemishes.

Wake your skin up, put the cells and glands to work and revive the sluggish circulation. Wash cold creams, cosmetics and dirt away with simple soap and water and give nature a chance to do its work.

Be careful what soap you choose

In beginning this cosmetic cleansing the choice of soap is most important. You mustn't use a harsh soap, drying and irritating, but one that is mild and balmy.

In the mild, soothing, creamy lather of Palmolive you find an ideal cleanser. It is the facial soap which satisfies millions of exacting users.

Pay only 10 cents

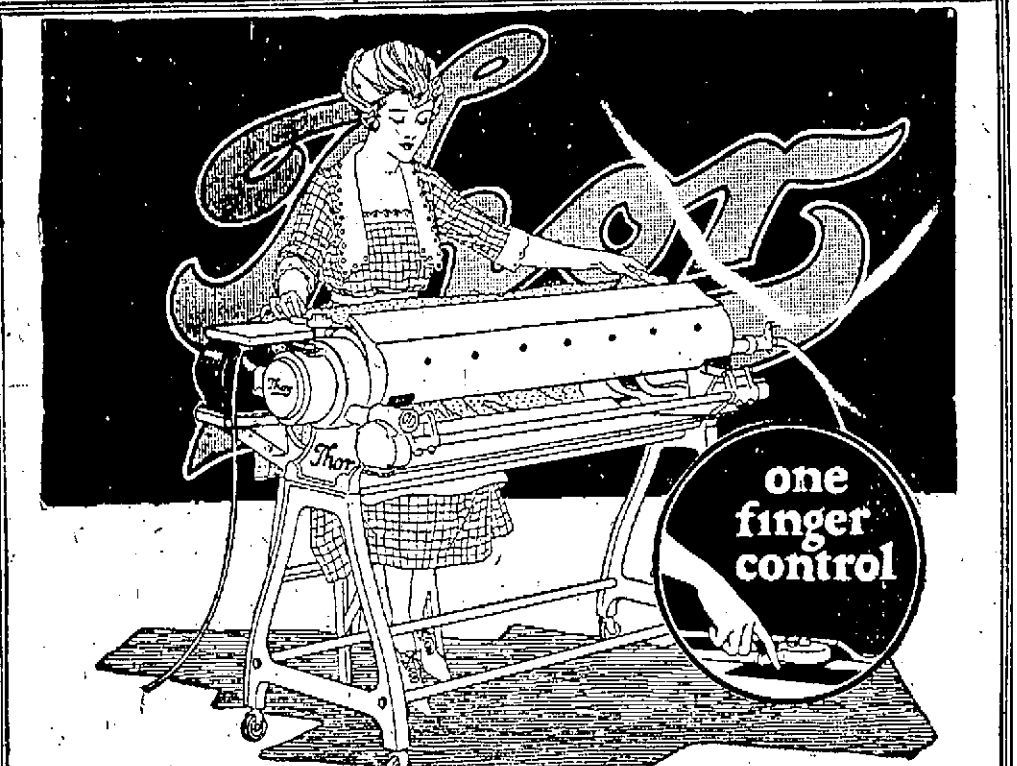

The luxury of Palmolive is a gift of modern science which ancient beauties never enjoyed. Their luxurious oils are blended in a wonderful combination which produces the finest facial soap the world has ever known.

Science while perfecting quality, has also reduced the price, with the help of millions of users who keep the Palmolive factories working night and day.

The great demand also allows economy in the purchase of the costly ingredients in vast volume. Result, the practical 10-cent price which puts Palmolive within the reach of all.

You can afford to use Palmolive for every toilet purpose. Enjoy the luxury of bathing with it. Use it on the wash stand to keep your hands smooth. Palmolive is a luxury offered at a utility price.

THE "FIRST LADY" OF ROCK COUNTY

Johanna Beauty Battles, First Lady of the Dairy of Rock county and in her class for age, the first in the state, has been receiving marked attention from all parts of the United States during the last few days. Johanna has done a remarkable thing in that she at four years of age has produced a little over a hundred pounds of milk a day for seven days and almost that amount daily for 30 days. She has added glory to the previous records of this part of the state. We used to be immensely pleased when we took about eight quarts of milk from the family pail, and no one dreamed that the day would come when a mere cow would get her name in the papers and be in the Associated Press dispatches. But the black and white and the red and white herds have made Rock county famous the world over and added riches to farm operation. In this connection the boys and girls of the county are interested participants. It will be noticed that care has been taken of these younger members of the farm organization in the premium list of the Janesville fair. This year the Gazette is giving three cups for exhibits, one each for the pig, sheep and calf clubs. There is also a cup for the corn club winner this year as usual. With the present prospects for the corn crop better than over in twenty years we may expect something more than the ordinary in the way of a record by the corn boys.

Rock county is essentially an out-of-doors county and its wealth is from the soil. It comes to us in such examples as Johanna Beauty Battles and her many thousand sisters who are making other records.

These are the things that stimulate the boys and girls into a higher appreciation of life on the farm, with its splendid possibilities.

It is pretty hard to understand what Greece is to get out of her war against the Turks except a lot of dead Greeks.

ONE EXAMPLE OF DISARMAMENT

We have had here in America an example of disarmament that may furnish an example for all the world. In the months following the peace that closed the war of 1812, Great Britain announced that her fleet on the Great Lakes was to be enlarged and a powerful armament would be found on the Canadian side of the waters of all the inland boundary seas, including Lake Champlain. President Madison called the attention of our then minister to England, John Quincy Adams, to this and through James Monroe, then secretary of state, asked that a treaty be arranged limiting armaments on the lakes. Out of this came the Rush-Bagot treaty, signed April 28, 1817, at Washington. Armaments were limited to four small vessels of not to exceed 100 tons each and equipped with an 18-pounder. They were divided, each government to have one, on Ontario, two on the upper lakes and one each on Lake Champlain.

While the convention was revocable on six months notice it has never been revoked. We have had boundary disputes with Great Britain, notably in 1842, 1846 and in 1894 and had there been navies anxious to test the guns, we would have been close to war on each occasion. "Naval rivalry on the Great Lakes," wrote President Madison, "would entail vast expense and danger of collision." We have had no such rivalry and here in America, with more than 3,000 miles of boundary between the United States and Canada, we have erected no military fortresses nor any of the establishments at the borders that we find in other parts of the world. It is the greatest example of international amity known. War is impossible without armament. Weapons, armies and navies are a constant challenge to conflict and test of strength. In her madness of army and navy enlargement Japan will find this out to her bitter regret. Let the world take lesson of the United States and Canada.

To the weatherman: Say it with rain.

DESTRUCTIVE RAILROAD FREIGHT RATES.

Six months experience has demonstrated that the greatest obstacle to a return to anything like normal conditions, is the rate permitted on freight and the passenger charges of the railroads. Passenger rates are in only a small degree responsible, but freight rates have struck home with a vengeance. The farmer has been hit in the sale of cattle and other products of the farm and ranch. We are paying a higher price for coal because of enormous carrying charges. We are putting the lumber operations of the northern part of the state in jeopardy.

EXTENSION OF FARM CREDIT

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—A member of the federal farm loan board has sailed for Porto Rico for an inspection trip of this island possession with a view to ascertaining whether the provisions of the farm loan act can be extended to the Porto Rican farmers with certainty of success.

About six months ago congress passed an amendment to the farm loan act granting the board authority to extend its work to Porto Rico, but making this extension discretionary with the board. It is the confident belief of the members of the board that the island farmers will fit into the farm loan scheme without any hitch. If a favorable report is made by W. S. A. Smith, Iowa, who was chosen for this mission, a branch of the federal land bank at New Orleans will be established in Porto Rico.

So great have the demands on the funds of the land banks become that congress recently amended the act creating the system so that the amended act creating the system with these banks treasury may have on deposit $31,000,000. Until a few days ago, this figure was but $6,000,000. This additional fund will enable the 12 banks to make loans to farmers throughout the summer without the necessity of seeking to sell another issue of bonds when the market is not at the best. It is believed that by October the farm loan board can advantageously sell another issue of bonds.

The law requires that within 15 days after the sale of an issue of bonds that the deposits made by the treasury in land banks be returned. This system has grown so tremendously that members of the board estimate 10 times as much money could be used. Up until the last of May, a resume shows 141,000 farmers throughout the United States had taken advantage of this federal credit, and that a total of $33,400,000 had been loaned to them. On these loans, the farmers have to pay 4 percent interest.

To balance this huge loan, the federal farm loan board has sold bonds amounting to about $33,000,000. The difference in the money secured from the sale of bonds and the actual cash lent to farmers was made up from the slender capital on which the 12 land banks started—$9,000,000—and the profit on the operations of the banks.

The feature which has popularized the farm loan system is the amortization part of it, which is obligatory on all farmers who borrow. Thus on each $1,000 borrowed, the farmer must return each year to the land bank from which he got it, $55. These payments, which apply alike on principal and interest, in the course of 33 1/2 years pay off the whole loan.

The land banks have been as successful in their operations with the farmers that each year it has been possible to pay a dividend of 5 per cent on the National Farm Loan association. This association is made up of the farmers who have borrowed money to carry on their business, and this dividend on the capital stock of the bank is distributed among these men as, in effect, a rebate on the interest they pay for their loans. The National Farm Loan association is made up of nearly 4,000 county farm loan organizations, better than one organization to each farm, in the country. Before the board was created, there was criticism from members representing the more prosperous agricultural states that the establishing of the loan system was intended almost solely for the poorer farmers of the south. Denials made at that time have been amply borne out. Iowa, for instance, which saw little need of the farm loan board at that time, is now the greatest patron of the federal land bank, with the single exception of Texas.

Congress has fixed the maximum interest rate the bonds can bear at 5 per cent. Also, existing law limits the difference between the bond interest rate and the interest on loans to not more than 1 per cent. Thus the limitation prevents the land banks from charging more than 6 per cent.

The land banks operating on the present basis are making money. They are paying their annual 5 per cent dividends and are laying by a little reserve each year which can be commanded by the farmers in a pinch. The cost of the board in Washington, which is composed of four members with the addition of the Secretary of the Treasury, ex officio chairman, is in the neighborhood of $200,000 yearly.

by reason of the excessive cost of hauling logs from the woods to the mills. We are unable to get the benefit of great fruit crops in many places and an equal distribution of necessities because of these freight rates. We meet the wall of rates in every branch of business. It is cheaper to carry oranges from Italy to New York than from California. Until the rates are lowered, business will be unsound and shaky. The plan to raise rates may have been the one thing apparently necessary, at the time it was done, but it has neither made the railroads profitable nor has it stabilized business. The greatest burden we have is freight cost, destructive of business generally—and this very condition is giving strength to the movement for government ownership. That may be what the railroads want.

GETTING OUT OF THE ARMY

That there will be no necessity for providing any special means of caring for the men who will have to be let out of the army by the 1st of October under the reduced army bill, is apparent with the thousands of requests for release from the soldiers now in the ranks. These men, many of them recruits lately joining, signify that they have had plenty of the army "game." They have seemingly found that the tales of the government posters and those by the recruiting officers have been exaggerated. But whatever it is that has provided an excuse for the present exodus should be learned. What is there about the military service that should make men glad to get out of it and take a chance at this time in the world when there is so much idle labor and so little opportunity for a job?

It is a serious question, and a man of the Daves calibre is needed to find out from the men who are asking and getting releases, why they are so anxious to leave the service. This is the time to correct army conditions weakening to the morale of the military arm of the government. We shall, even though disarmament comes, be obliged to maintain a small military establishment—a national police force as it were. It should be of the best and highest type of men and conditions under which they serve should be favorable to obtaining that sort of men for the service.

Something must have happened in Chicago, a woman has been convicted of killing her husband. It may be that it was a protest against rude and crude methods, as she used a cleaver.

With the laws of Wisconsin giving women equal rights, there can be no good reason why she should ever be arrested for impersonating a man.

THE HAPPY MAN

Room the whole world over and search it through and through. And the only happy man you'll find is the man with a wife who cares to battle, the man who dreams to win. Is the one who wakes to gladness when the dawn comes streaking in.

You may dream your dreams of leisure, you may envy idle men. But it hurts to know that duty will never call again. And that grows long and dreary, though the sleep above are blue. To the man who knows no burden and has no task to do.

It is good to know life needs us. Is is good to walk with care. It is good to toll for dresses for our little ones to wear. And though we waste of resting when the gold we crave is won. The saddest man around us are those whose work is done.

There is no sweet contentment in being free from care. The stout hearts are the gladdest by the burdens they must bear. And though we dream of resting when all our tasks are through. When that day comes, we'll envy the man with work to do.

Hope for a speedy solution of the dispute between the United States railroad administration and the railroads over the amounts claimed by each for the period of government control, is expressed by F. H. Goff, banker who, at the request of Secretaries Hoover and Mellon, approved by President Harding, is attempting to effect a settlement of the controversy that has now run fifteen months.

Through the conferences of administration and railroads, which Mr. Goff set in motion in New York and Washington after Secretary Hoover asked him to undertake the task, it is hoped that by concessions and compromises the railroads' original claims against the government, totaling $1,000,000,000, will be shaved down to approximately $400,000,000.

This is not the first time that Mr. Goff has been called on for expert advice by the Senate Finance Committee of the capital issues committee of the war finance corporation from April, 1918, until August, 1919, a position which he filled with distinction.

Mr. Goff was born at Blackbury, Ill., in 1873. He was educated at the University of Michigan and admitted to the Cleveland bar in 1894. He became president of a large Cleveland bank in 1908, a position he has since held.

Mr. Goff is an officer in about a dozen large corporations. In politics he is a Republican.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Needless Discomfort of Cities. When the dog star rages and the fierce heats envelop the earth, the imperfections of the city as a dwelling-place become more apparent. Hot weather is hot everywhere; but the baking pavements, reflecting curiously the rays of the sun, add a peculiar discomfort. And, as they retain their heat long after the sun has gone down, they are a leading part in making the night uncomfortable.

Here is where the valley of grass and trees is most conspicuous. Every little park, every shaded street is an asset of enormous value. Factories districts need not be ugly and uncomfortable. The modern factory is a very different sort of affair to the old, open, airy, one-story buildings with their tree-lined streets, abundant open spaces, frequent playgrounds and with no huddled alleys or dreary stretches of brick and stone. A good many vital problems of health and happiness would have been solved by the simplest way.

But in the building of their cities men have too often deliberately made themselves miserable. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

VACATION TRIBULATIONS

Mosquito bites annoy some persons, very little and others very much. The good being the greater sufferers of the summer season.

For relief, rub the place gently with moistened soap. In the case of children, bathe the skin with a tablespoonful of household ammonia or of pompholy spirit of ammonia in a cupful of water, or bathe with a small handful of saleratus (soda) in a basin of water. Some persons find that the irritation of mosquito bite is relieved by touching the spot with tincture of iodine. Glycerin gives relief in some cases. And the immediate application of a drop of peroxide of hydrogen to the spot has been found to be a relief. This peroxide treatment has also been recommended to me by a soda fountain clerk for the relief of bee stings—the syrups at treated bees and many stings were treated in the summer season.

The way to rid a place of mosquitoes is to conduct a thorough survey of the neighborhood, searching out every place where water is likely to stand for as long a time as five or ten days, and emptying such receptacles, screening them if they cannot be emptied or filling the surface if the water can not be drained away. Disinfect wells, cisterns, fountains, rain barrels, obstructed eaves, old cans hidden under eaves, saw tracks in fields, unsecured drains, unused flower boxes, underneath sewer catch basins, cesspools, etc., must be looked upon as likely places for mosquito breeding. Woods or grass along the edges of small streams or ponds must be cleared away so that fish may get at the larvae and destroy them.

Oil of cedar..... 1 ounce
Oil of citronella..... 1 ounce
Spirits of camphor..... 1 ounce
Oil of cedar..... 1/2 ounce
A few drops of this on a towel hung over the head of the bed will keep mosquitoes away for hours. A little may be applied to the face and hands where mosquitoes are very annoying.

Another excellent dope recommended to me by an outdoor man of long experience is this:

Olive oil.
Oil of tar.
Oil of cedar.
Oil of citronella, equal parts of each.
This makes a gooey dope, but it certainly does repel the pests. A cloth with a few drops of it may be

Wait Till She Can Vote. Would you consider it proper to wear a baby fourteen months old? She has twelve teeth and weighs 25 pounds. Of course she doesn't walk yet. She always seems to be afraid to walk. I give her a soft boiled egg in the morning and plenty of bread and butter during the day. She doesn't seem to have enough to eat. (Mrs. J. N. J.)

ANSWER.—When a baby has enough teeth to eat bread and butter it is surely high time she were weaned. At about the time she is ten months most babies should be weaned.

Tomatoes and Arthritis. Some one says that a person having arthritis should not eat even one tomato a day. Just what effect do tomatoes have on the system? (Mrs. H. E. P.)

ANSWER.—That is a favorite old fallacy of the "home" specialists and other modern charlatans. No less an authority on nutrition than the great Hindle has shown that the daily ingestion of five kilograms of tomatoes (about ten pounds) with 500 grams (twenty-one ounces) of lean ham broiled and 100 grams (3 1/2 ounces) of margarine for four days produces a urine having a good solvent power for uric acid. As chalky deposits in the joints of arthritis (joint inflammation) called gout are deposits of uric acid, the use of tomatoes in the diet of one so afflicted would be unobjectionable, if not actually beneficial.

Friendly stars rule this morning, according to astrology. Mercury and Uranus are in benefic aspect. Mercury becomes adverse later.

The nation is to be disappointed in some diplomatic negotiations, the mean much to the stars eye read aright. They will appear to be successful, but there will be a sudden change.

Public sentiment at this time is likely to be variable and not to be depended on of congress will receive much criticism from the people.

Persons who are gifted with imagination should benefit from this rule of the stars, which is especially fortunate for writers.

There should be a fairly lucky day for lovers, but warning is given that women may be extremely delicate, while this planetary government prevails.

Love of home will be expressed more and more in a desire for permanent habitations, and city landlords will lose many tenants of the best type. This will be especially noticeable in the west.

The position of Jupiter and Saturn presages much discussion of labor problems and serious complications in many industrial centers.

The stars seem to indicate that new leaders will arise in labor circles and that changes in organization will be brought about in the next few years. Affairs in South Africa are to reach a more and more serious crisis.

Revelations are to be made before autumn and there will be many large bequests to them.

It has been prophesied that many prominent men and women would end their careers within the year and the stars now foretell the close of lives representing science, statesmanship and artistic achievement.

In the new era recently begun there is to be another terrible war, if the stars are read aright, and in certain quarters there is secret knowledge that will soon be revealed, astrologers declare.

People at the beach at the first sand bar, below the hospital were entertained with stunts by "Buster" dog that seemed to have a life in the water. VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor: Gazette:

I would like to ask what right the city of Janesville has to bring a nuisance into a neighborhood. I am sure the playground at the Washington school certainly is. There is never a time from early morning until after dark that there is no bit of quiet for anyone near this place.

Certainly I think we must have two or three hours after dinner when we could have a little rest, but no yell and screams all night long. And the language isn't fit for a respectable one to listen to. I believe the boys should have a place to play but it should be in the country, where it won't be a nuisance.

I would be pleased to have some of the ladies who so strongly favor the playground to come to my home at 8 a. m. and stay until 10 p. m. and see what they think of the nuisance.

What are we getting for the money we pay for taxes? Nothing but nervousness and noise. I am sure that people's children who should be cared for at home can be turned over to the public. I think a good many of our expenses would be the playground.

Mrs. William Vlymen

Mrs. Wm. Vlymen died at St. Luke's hospital, Fairbault, Minn., on Tuesday, July 12 at 6 p. m. Agnes Elizabeth Griebel was born in Racine, February 8, 1887. At the age of eight years she was orphaned by death, but the father kept the home for three years when a painful malady attacked his eyes and it seemed wise to give into other hands the care of his two young daughters. One, the older, came to make her home in Janesville with the Jeffris family where she resided in November 1898 as one of its members. She attended the public school and was a member of the Congregational church and was interested in musical work.

On September 10, 1912 she was united in marriage with William Vlymen. They made their home in Albert Lea, Minnesota for a time, later removing to Fairbault. To them were born three children, Elizabeth Annette, William John, and David Richmond. Besides her husband, Mrs. Vlymen leaves two sisters, Miss Mary Griebel, Racine, and Mrs. Harry Young, Monroe.

During her membership in the Congregational church of Fairbault, Mrs. Vlymen had been one whose place it will be hard to fill as she assisted in the choir of both church and Sunday school and was a teacher in the Sunday school. Indeed her activities were not restricted to these, she gave liberally of her time, according to her strength, to all causes for good. She was a beautiful home-maker and was never happier than when entertaining her friends.

It was found when the remains were borne to the station on that rainy day that scores of friends came to pay their respects to her memory and it was said, "It seems as if all Fairbault were weeping." The funeral was held in Janesville on Thursday, July 14 at the home of Miss Susan Jeffris, 1400 Milton avenue. The Rev. F. J. Scribner officiating. The pallbearers were Kenneth, Bruce and Robert Jeffris, Pierpont Wood, Alan Dunwiddie and Emil J. Haumerson. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

WAR VETERANS TO SERVE ON JURIES

Younger Men Called for Municipal Court Cases—First One Monday

Janesville's young men are to be given more of a voice in city government and law enforcement, here during the coming year as a result of a plan to be tried out in drawing juries for municipal court. Most of these on the new jury list of 250 names just completed are between the ages of 21 and 35, a large number of them, veterans of the World war.

The plan in the past has been to pick juries composed mostly of men more than 45 years of age. Judge H. L. Maxwell is in hearty accord with the idea of enlisting the services of the younger generation. He feels they should have an opportunity of jury service which he declares is one of the most important rights given to a citizen.

Considered an honor, "It may be considered an honor to be chosen as a juror," he said. "It certainly should not be held a burden as some believed. The jury list is made up with great care by the three jury commissioners who pick the men with respect to their honesty, integrity, ability and character."

The first young man jury was summoned to appear at 1:30 p. m. Monday to hear the state's case against Bert Paddock, town of Porter, charged with having driven a car while intoxicated. Paul Grubis is defending Paddock with J. S. Dunwiddie prosecuting the case.

First Jury Chosen. Following are the jurors for the Paddock case: P. H. St. John, J. W. Skelly, J. W. Parker, Luther Mills, George J. Hammes, and Harry Jones. They were chosen from a venire of 25 names. Others in the venire were: Stuart Grimsbury, Harry Ross, Arthur Gungor, A. N. Mead, George A. Bassford, John Ford, Ben W. Kuhlman, Raymond Barnes, James E. Crook, Cal Blodgett, Eber Arthur and Henry Weber, Jr.

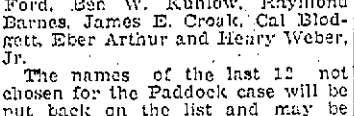

The names of the last 12 not chosen for the Paddock case will be put back on the list and may be drawn for some future jury.

INVESTIGATE PRICE OF CANDY AND SODAS, IS DEMAND OF WOMEN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Milwaukee.—An investigation of prices charged for candy and soda fountain drinks will be demanded of the attorney general by the Women's Fair Price League. Mrs. Frank F. Howe, president, said Monday. "There have been numerous complaints alleging excessive retail prices for candy and for ice cream and drinks," said Mrs. Howe. "In some instances retailers make a profit, I am told, that amounts to extortion. In this hot weather they have made the most of their opportunity."

"And right before us all she dropped her face down by his beard and she kissed him. At dinner he gave her the biggest diamond in a crown. They had it at the bank where it had been turned in by somebody who cared more for a sight of home than for a valuable monstrosity. They had dinner in the hall. At the time I left it was more like a flood—a flood of champagne."

"Christopher," Clara broke in. "For the love of heaven, stop it. What do I care? There is only one thing which interests me. I wonder whether you will pretend to be ignorant of it?"

He saw that evasion was useless. "Did you ever think you would be happy?" he ventured, gently. "If you tried to broaden your interests?"

He had resolved that night as he walked to the house, to let Clara understand without equivocation that a man, no matter how rich, would be no warmer. It seemed difficult to make her understand this; her attitude throughout the weeks of their acquaintance had been one of obvious excitement, and she had suggested that she should release the strong emotions she fancied he was holding in restraint. His attempts to dissuade her had met with little success. He had been so sure that she was a part of him, that deep-seated belief that women are what they are because men have made them so; that, finally, which always deterred him from his purpose and impelled him to treat Clara with a gentleness and consideration she so perversely misconstrued.

He started into the huge fireplace, watching ragged red and blue and green flames leap against the blackened chimney and told himself that now he must be home. He wondered just what he could say—how to say it. He searched his mind for phrases, delicate phrases—effective without being brutal, priggish or pompously virtuous. Exactly as he had been unprepared to appear at any time but a mediocrity on that first day of their meeting, so, this night, he was unaware of appearing like anything more than a diversion to the woman opposite him. Clara's most serious business in life, and he realized that the one most difficult to conquer would be the one upon whom her attention should concentrate. But he certainly had expected that, long before this, her interest in him would have died, or that her pride and self-respect would have rescued her—and him—from situations of this uncomfortable nature.

"I should think that you would find real happiness in trying to interest yourself in more than one thing at a time," he repeated.

She looked at him in silence for a little, then suddenly slipped from the couch to the floor beside him.

"Christopher," she said, "let us thrust the whole thing out tonight. Tell me, am I so utterly repulsive that you can't be roused to the faintest interest in me?"

"You are one of the most beautiful women I have ever seen," he told her, honestly.

"Well, then," she was gratified but frankly puzzled. "Why do you not act sometimes as though you thought so?"

"Well," he said, "I have told you."

"Exactly as you would speak of a house, of a public building or some other inanimate thing? Christopher, I wish you would be honest with me. Are you married?"

"Would that make any difference?"

"Not a jot," she answered vehemently. "Marriage is only an emotional accident. It is only a matter of right or wrong close to his. He thought of Goldie Meadows and of another woman—on the 'Outside.' Clara shook him impatiently.

"What are you thinking?" she demanded.

"I think," he said slowly, "that you are not playing the game."

"Moral! The morals of Christopher Kleath," she laughed.

Suddenly she commenced to cry and as suddenly she stopped.

THE GIRL WHO HAD NO CHANCE

CHAPTER LXXXVI

TIM'S HOME.

"This is the room," Myra said, laying down the gray hat and leading the way.

The sitting room was "done" in a period style, which Ruth offered a hearing of. Myra's mother had given her a large and too gaudy for that small room. There were looped back curtains at the windows, looped back ribbons, and velvet ones over them.

"And we're rich, for this neighborhood. We have a dining room, too, out in the kitchen, and a bathroom. Myra was saying going on through a curtained archway into another room.

This evidently was the dining room, for the table and chairs were set for three. The table was covered with a white cloth, and on it stood a silver and glass that only a young housewife can muster and display with such an air of confidence.

"And here's Junior," Myra exclaimed.

She walked to a baby carriage in the corner and easily picked up the chubby bundle within it. Ruth stood perfectly silent.

She wanted to say something, she didn't know what it should be. After all, she knew no babies and no idea of what one said or did to them. She was rather in awe of them and immensely flattered if one of them ever noticed her or smiled at her in the street car. As she was so young, she was likely to crack in the middle if an amateur picked them up. But Myra had no such feelings. She held the baby in just the proper fashion, in the corner of her arm, one hand supporting it where an arm did not cradle it.

Still Ruth could say nothing.

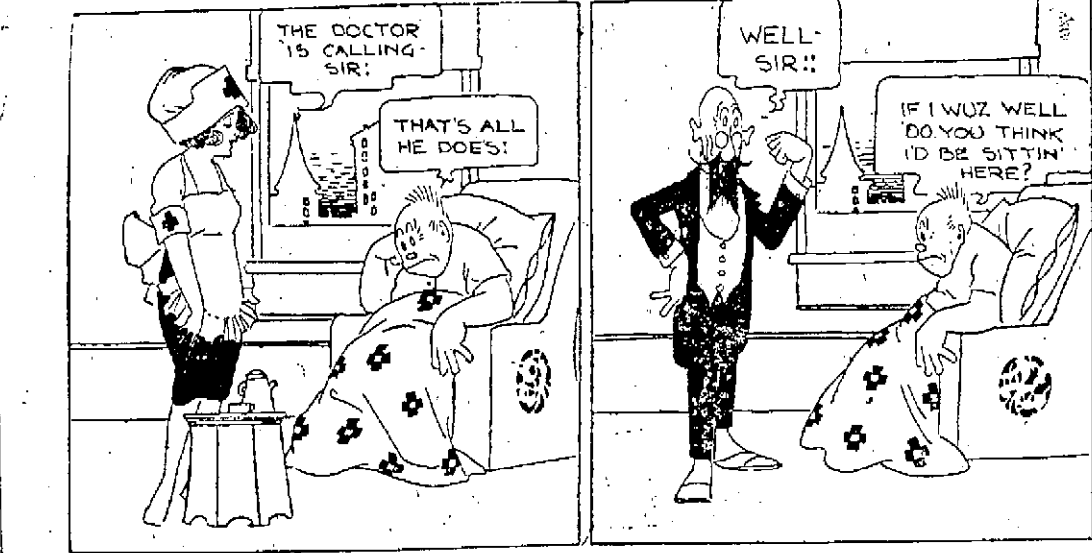

So this was Tim's child. It looked like any other baby. It was pink and fair, its delicate hair was black, its eyes seemed dark too, though she couldn't tell. It was still, young enough for its features to be soft and undetermined.

Try as she would, she could see no resemblance to Tim—to Tim, who had been in her eyes as someone extraordinarily handsome.

"He's older than I thought," she managed to say at last. It was the only thing she could think of.

"Of course," Myra turned with a little laugh. "Do you know how long it's been since we really saw each other, Ruth?"

CONFAB TO DECIDE FILIPINO PROBLEM?

Disarmament Conference May Bring Up Disposition of Islands.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.

Washington—The disarmament conference to be held here next fall may decide the future status of the Philippines.

President Harding himself is not averse to a discussion of the Philippine question with other powers. Naturally the United States will not debate with any other government the question of when independence will be granted, but on the other hand, it is ready to talk over international aspects of the Philippine problem.

In other words, when the United States grants independence to the Philippines, it will be the responsibility of the United States to guarantee the territorial integrity of the Philippines.

A Domestic Matter.

The question of whether or not freedom shall be given the Philippines is a domestic matter, and as such the other powers attending the disarmament conference next fall would not feel warranted in touching it. It is more than outside nations have felt disposed to interfere as between Ireland and Great Britain. The United States, on the other hand, by taking the initiative and offering for discussion simply the international aspect of the Philippine question, will remove all doubts which the powers might otherwise have had as to the propriety of their entering into the discussion.

Guarantees for Philippines.

As Mr. Harding himself indicated, the scope of the disarmament conference will be determined when it actually gets into session, but no one is made here of the fact that the United States would like to have all the powers, including Japan, go on record as guaranteeing the territorial integrity of the Philippines whenever independence shall be decided upon by the United States. If this can be accomplished, one of the possible sources of friction and war in the Far East will have been removed, and America's political and naval expansion can correspondingly be diminished from year to year.

Philippine Expense.

The fortification of the Philippines has been one of America's chief items of expense, and the prospect of keeping a protecting arm over the Philippines, even after independence has been granted, has not been relished here.

Obviously, one of the practical questions of the disarmament conference is how to reduce military and naval expense now borne directly by the taxpayers. Indeed, America might have granted independence to the Philippines during the Wilson administration if it had been possible to enter into an agreement with other governments for the neutralization of the Philippines. It will be recalled, however, that while Mr. Wilson at first warmly welcomed independence, when a bill granting the same was passed by the house, he reversed himself when the measure reached the senate and was instrumental in finally preventing action.

Real reasons have never made public, but it is commonly supposed that international events caused the sudden change. The world war had begun, and Japan had engaged in it with the definite purpose of achieving a dominant position in the Far East. It was impossible at that time to rivet the attention of Great Britain and the Investigation carried on in Madison also is said to have shown that prices on soft drinks are higher than they should be.

Tractors Swipe Two Victories from Reuping Leathers

LOCALS TAKE LIFE EASY IN ANNEXING WEEK-END BATTLES

Fond du Lac met the Janesville Tractors Saturday and Sunday and when the last inning had been played on the Sabbath agreed that the Rover City aggregation is far ahead of the Reuping Leathers. Forring's crew came home with a couple of wins, 11 to 2 on Saturday and 7 to 2 on Sunday.

Reck Smithson and Lathrop (left) started out and after things were pretty well sewed up, "Bill" Lathrop, of whom Fondy had heard much, was sent in to please the fans. There is nothing to record in the Saturday game save that the Tractors were hitting madly and at any old time.

Wooton Pitches Sunday.

Smithson went over to Two Rivers on Sunday and won a game there. While Lathrop took a trip to Stoughton and sat on the bench as a reliever for which he was nicely paid. Therefore Jack Wooton was left to do the hurling for Janesville and he pitched a crack game allowing only six hits. Janesville poked 11 hits on Sunday off Veteran Jim Dohan. Hard slugging was a feature. Steen of the Reupings connected with a triple and a double.

The Tractors will be idle for the balance of the week. On Saturday and Sunday they appear at Kenosha against the Nash Motors.

Score by innings:

Saturday.

Reupings .0 0 0 1 0 0 4 0-7 7 1
Batteries: Smithson, Lathrop and Wooton; Mertz and Smith.

Sunday.

Janesville .0 0 0 3 1 3 0 0 1-7 11 1
Batteries: Dohan and Smith; Wooton and Wooton.

Rails Crush Crescents, 30 to 9

Several gallons of blood were spilled at Chasley Bluff on Lake Koshong Sunday afternoon and the spillage turned out to be the Milton Junction Crescents. The Rails of Janesville sailed into the Crescents and lammed the stuffing out of them to the racket of a score of 30 to 9.

Manager's deliveries were nothing to the Rails. Both teams had played two previous games with an even split. The Rover City boys making up for fourth of July defeat right from the start.

There were a goodly number of errors on both sides, but the heavy slick work of the Rails was ever present to keep up a barrage of bingles. The Crescents found Fire but not often enough to do much damage.

ONLY THREE HOMERS IN MAJORS SUNDAY

American Golf Starts Tuesday

Washington. — There will be a great collection of golf sticks on the Columbia Country club green Tuesday when play begins for the American open championship. Since two million people in the world are said to be handling golf sticks every week and are said to own from ten to sixteen million of them, the American Forestry association experts have compiled some figures to find where golf sticks come from and what goes into them.

Incidentally these experts, who are interested broadly in the conservation and growth of lumber, have estimated that more than 1,000,000 feet of 32 kinds of lumber are used in the United States each year by manufacturers of appliances and equipment for sports.

Golf sticks do not use up most of this, many other things use more than they, but it is probable that no other article of the kind enters so closely into the recreation of millions.

The woods named as sources of material in sports consist of twenty-six hardwoods and six softwoods. Seven are foreign.

English Track Stars Are Ill

Swampscott, Mass.—With less than a week remaining before the International Track meet between Yale, Harvard and Oxford-Cambridge athletes, the pall of gloom over the English quarters here is made still deeper by the illness of M. A. McInness, Oxford middle distance runner, who is confined to his room with a severe bronchial attack.

Both McInness, who won the Oxford-Cambridge-Cornell cross country race last Christmas, and J. B. Stullard, star miler, who has a fallen transverse arch in his left foot, are under the care of Dr. C. Howard Dobson.

The latter says he believes, the men will be able to compete Saturday.

Club Billiards Lose Two Games

Trying to play two games in two different towns at the same time was too much for the Club Billiards Sunday. Both teams that they sent out on the road were returned losers. The scores were 10 to 4 in favor of Durand, Ill., and 12 to 6 in favor of Willowdale.

Bad support trimmed the Club at Durand. Until the sixth frame, the score was a tie at 3 all with an exciting game in progress. The Durand set out and did not finish until they got two in the seventh and added five in the ninth. Twelve hits by the Billiards were not bunched sufficiently to take the bacon. Allie Bick twirled for the Club.

Over at Willowdale, the batting combination of the Butters brothers sent terror into the scoring of the Club seconds. They had an easy time reaching the deliveries of Daw-

BOY BEAT EXPERTS; TOLD FIGHT RESULTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago. — Eight experts wrote millions of words of guesses on the Dempsey-Carpenter fight during the weeks preceding it, but a six year old boy outguessed them all and, so far as is known, was the only one to actually forecast the fight round by round without making a mistake. This youthful prophet was Floyd Fitzsimmons, Jr., son of the Benton Harbor, Mich., fight promoter.

"What do you think of the fight, little?" a newspaper man asked the youngster during a discussion a few hours before the big affair.

"Fitzie," who knows Dempsey well, replied:

"Well, I think Jack is going to wear him out the first two rounds, hit him some more in the third

George Dumont, last year with the Samson Tractors here, ran up against record breaking batting on Saturday. Poor "Speed King" was the victim of the big stick of First Baseman Daubert of the Eveleth, Minn., team.

Daubert hit five home runs off Dumont's offerings in five times up. His last four buser came in the tenth inning with two men on the sacks and brought victory for Eveleth over Virginia, 9 to 6.

ESSEX

Men say these things about it—

"Like New After Two Years"

"Purchased my Essex in the Spring of 1919 and after covering over 18,000 miles my motor is running better than ever. Battery has been out of my car only once. No mechanical expense has been incurred."

HENRY R. GAMMETT
The Downham & Gammett Co.
Minneapolis, Minn.

"Snug As New After 32,500 Miles"

"In 17 months have driven my Essex 32,500 miles. Bearings are still as snug as when I received the car. It has all the power and speed of a new car. 20,000 on a set of Fabric tires still good for 3000 miles."

WM. J. LYNCH
Ft. Bliss Auto Stand
El Paso, Texas

"Over 20,000 Miles on Tires"

"Have driven my Essex Sedan over 20,000 miles on the original tires. Has given excellent satisfaction—upkeep has been very slight. Am also driving an Essex touring which has covered 14,000 miles, and my experience with this has been equal to that with the Sedan."

J. M. BROS., Secretary
Wm. Bros. Boiler & Manufacturing Co.
Minneapolis, Minn.

"As rapidly as our F. . . s are retired, we will take on the Essex. They are just as light on tires, use less gas than the F. . . cover mileage faster, are easier on the men. Practically no time out for repairs."

WALRATH & SHERWOOD
LUMBER CO.
Omaha, Nebraska

"Just Try It After 22,000 Miles"

"One ride in my Essex as it stands, after 22,000 miles, will convince anybody that it has as much power, speed, reliability and freedom from noise as when new."

E. L. MORRILL
Merrick Medicine Co., Inc.
Waco, Texas

"Too Good to Trade"

"We will not trade in any of our Essex cars, but will use them another season. They were used continually since the Spring of 1920, and the men who drive them requested me not to trade them in this year, as each is convinced he has the very best car on the road, and the best motor he ever rode behind."

"Absolutely the brightest, liveliest, little engine I ever found in an American Car"—S. F. Edge in "The Autocar," London, Eng.

"A colossal revelation of the value Americans can offer at its price"—E. N. D. in "The Auto," of London, Eng.

"Its transcontinental record is not merely a record—it's a miracle"—From "The Car," London, Eng.

—and it set all these famous records—

In 4 trips across America Essex 4 times breaks the transcontinental record

First Essex	Second Essex	Third Essex	Fourth Essex
San Francisco to New York —4 days, 14 hrs., 43 min. Lowest Record 12 hrs., 48 min.	New York to San Francisco —4 days, 19 hrs., 17 min. Lowest Record 22 hrs., 13 min.	San Francisco to New York —4 days, 21 hrs., 56 min. Lowest Record by 5 hrs., 35 min.	New York to San Francisco —5 days, 6 hrs., 13 min. Lowest Record by 11 hrs., 19 min.

The average time for each of the four Essex cars over 3347 miles Ocean to Ocean route was 4 days, 21 hours, 32 minutes.

Essex set the official 50-hour record,*traveling 3037 miles at better than a mile a minute. For cars of its motor size it holds all official stock records for speed and endurance from 1 to 50 hours.

It set the world's 24-hour road mark of 1061 miles, and the official 24-hour dirt track record of 1261 miles.

Essex also set the New York-Chicago record—24 hrs., 43 min., and the San Bernardino hill climb record.

—because it is built this way

The Essex did not bring costly car performance and reliability to the light, moderate-priced field without duplicating or excelling the design and workmanship of the finest, high-priced cars.

For instance S. F. Edge, England's most noted automobile authority says: "This motor might have had a Coatlen* or a Pomeroy* as its sponsor (*Respectively designers of two English cars of higher-price than any American car.)

And so throughout, Essex gets its long endurance, and continued smoothness and quietness of operation, from the way it is built. It has eliminated squeaking bodies with a frame so designed that it does not weave. This frame, with one exception is sturdier for the duty it is to perform than any other car.

Devices which provide for longer wear, or for taking up wear at no expense, are Essex features that only a few of the highest priced cars duplicate. This is the reason that Essex cars that have seen 2 years service and upwards of 20,000 miles are running as well and as quietly and economically now as when new. Bearings are snug. Joints are tight and free from squeaks. Doors are solid and flush-fitting, without rattles. You never have seen an Essex with weaving wheels, and bar accident sufficient to smash a car, you never will.

These are not spectacular advantages. You may not notice them in comparing Essex to another new car. But you will know what they mean if you compare an old Essex to another old car.

Time serves to show the real difference between the way cars are built. That is why Essex owners who have had their cars through long, hard service, speak with such conviction of its goodness.

It is easy for you to find and examine the real proofs regarding any car you may think of buying:

What have cars of the same make shown over a period of several years?

What is the future expectancy of good service from such cars after twenty or thirty thousand miles.

You have the all important advantage of being able to ask owners. Make use of it. It is an inexpensive insurance against the risk of making a selection you may regret.

We will be glad of an early opportunity to explain the many points of advantage that only costly cars share with Essex.
